An facuration Down the Lenguages Blees, Into Alabama.

CHATTANOORA, April 29 - On Saturday last we availed ourselves of the Y. M. C. A. excursion down the Tennessee river, to a shoul called the "Suck". The little steamer "J. H. Johnston" was to leave the wharf at the foot of Market street, precisely at a o'clock, and we consequently postponed the last sweet mp to be ready. We were on time, and securing the shady side of the boat prepared to enjoy our money's worth Our getting oil was on the principle of Sany time this week." If anybody is in a burry to go somewhere, we advise them to take some other route besides the Tennessee my

We were enger to be off and kept an anxious eye on the dusky fined manipulator of the stern line, but he sat like a statue in chony. Still more people-shall we ever get shall ed? It was finally developed that the delay was for steamer chairs that were to arrive from the city. At last, they came, three huge dray loads, and were eagerly trans terred from wagon to steamer. A little more shifting of the human cargo, a few cuss words from the captain, the cliony statue deliberately loosens the line, makes a coil of it and throws it aboutd. The plank is hauled in, there are a few sharp whisties, a clang of bells, the great wheel begins to tovolve and churn the water into foamand we are off. Not there's a man left, he comes rushing trantically down the stony hill, waving his arms like a wind utill. The engines are reversed, and we swing buck tor him. A dozen hands are teached out to help him aboutd, he makes the spring but misses the gang plank by several feetfrom the passengers, and he scrambled up on an old scow floating hear, a very moist and exceedingly disgusted individual, minus a hat that goes driffing placedly down the stream. We steamed down on the north of Cameron Hill, close in by the largest fannery in the United States, covering a great many acres. A stiff breeze is blowing, and the ambitious young swain on our left has a lively tussle with the fair Angelina's parasol that gives ununstakable a burden as Dispepsia. WOMAN'S WEAR

London sends out some new widows cape with a long craps veil at the back.

New guighams and chambrays come in colors that faithfully reproduce the effects of French china.

Though steels are faintly tolerated in the back of walking dresses, house and carriage gowns must fall flat. The Smyt na lace flounces imported to trim

China silk frocks are almost beautiful and wonderfully detable. Violet with dull green and deep yellow is one of the startling combinations seen upon imported dinner gowns. Small black bound cloth jackets are sent home with India silk frocks, and the widest and richest of black sushes. Though dead white will be a good deal worn this annual it is not so stylish or so becoming as the cream and ivory tints. Tron-tron is the term applied to laces and runnings woven with holes through which narrow ribbons are to be run.

Some of the new, big buttons have Wattere figures, male and female, delicately painted upon chian, and set in a metal run.

House waists of adk or vool in any of t hundred stuffs and patterns are now worn with different skirts at any hour of the day. The polonaise gown must have a Louis Quatorze vest, flaring cuffs and wide revers of the richest embroidery, if you would be in the height of fashion.

The favorite bridesmad's gown for after Easter weddings is of white silk mushin over winte or light silk, made up with short full shirt and empire bodice.

The empire scarf of rich antique brocade, three-quarters of a yard wide and two and one-buit yards long, is worn in differently as a such or shoulder drupery Many chip hate and bonnets will be worn this season, and more of the old fashioned crinolines, other black or white, with gift or silver cord between the plants. Just now the expote toque is the reigning shape for headgear. In black lace it is especially stylish when much with a draped crown and frimmed with yer, a mow ribbon or deli e do flowers The anexpected happens in millinery as otherwhere. Velvet and velvet ribbon, here-tolore confined to winter, will almost divide honors as a trimming stuff with lace gauze and silk ribbon. Worth and Pingatone sending over spring pakets of the light tan cloth simply statched upon seams and edges, but beglorified with unistenat culls and so on of gold cloth applique with burrel leaf embroidery. The latest outings of a British gown maker is a bride's "going away" die s of black and poppy red, along with which went a bonnet of black lice thread d with poppy ribbons and trumm d with big poppy red tosetter just gver the forchead. A pirity novelty in artiflelal flowers is rils bon grass of the most delicate green that is used instead of rabbon to be up the bouquets and wreaths upon fall gowns. The roses, torget mesnots, violets and so on in black and green velvet are certainly not untural look ing, yet oddly attractive

The new flowered sate as, with striped or shaded or black grounds, are made up a Watteni style, but full poloniese, over a plain skut. The duk ones, with Persim figures, are made up caller into a skirt or short insque, or else in the fully afficied, short wasted empire fushion - New York Commereml Advertiser

Rind of Current Conductor for Electric Bailway Purposes Nos on Trial on One of the New York Elevated Rail-

A new departure in current conductors for electric railway purposes has been taken by the Daft company, who are now operating trains on a section of the Ninth Avenue Elevated road in New York city The new kind of conductor is shown in the accompanying cut, reproduced from The Electric World.

ELECTRIC CURRENT CONDUCTOR, NEW YORK

The conductor, which is supported by heavy insulated east iron brackets, runs along out side the outer guard rail of each track. It is of round iron, three inches in diameter, and is surmounted by, and in perfect electrical contact with, a bar of phospher bronze three-eighths of an Inch thick by one inch wide. This bar takes all the wear from the contact apparatus, and will retain a polished surface under all circumstances. The supporting bracket is made in two parts, as may be seen in the illustration, and has a grip suf ficient to prevent all possibility of displace ment of the conductor. The conductor is el evated a considerable distance from the ties, and the supporting brackets are well insulat ed, so that the chances of loss of electric energy through leakage are reduced to a minimum. The difference in cost of iron and copper admits of the greatly increased size conductor, giving the same conductivity nt much less expense.

Refilling of Old Coal Mines.

An ingenious artifice that has lately been successfully put in practice at Shenandoah by the Reading company, at the Kohinoor colliery, for refilling the excavations from which coal has been taken out, is worthy of imitated elsewhere throughout the coal regions where similar conditions prevail. The method is both simple and effective, and prevents the caving in of the earth above, and which has not been infrequent in the mining towns or the anthracite region. Beside the vuluable piliars of pure coal, which for i - iy years it was customary to leave in the numer to prevent falling in of the roof, can now be

The Great Artesian Well District.

The James River valley, Dakota, is chimed to be the greatest artesian well district known. A comparison with other districts makes it no pen that for pressure and area over which they are found, this valley for surpasses them all. There are some fine wells in France, but they are found only in favored cocalities. Some of the wells in France are of large bore, but in none does the pressure count any one of fifty wells in the James valley, says Scientific American. Western Califrom Son University towns they boundary of the state, is proving itself to be from Yankton to Jamestown have wells, and the majority of these have a very heavy pressure. The possibilities of the wells of this valley seem to be beyond estimation. With millions of gallons flowing daily, there has been no diminution of the supply.

Ostrich Farming in California.

With a view to experiments in ostrich form ng in California, in 1882 some birds were imported from Cape Town, and in 1886-87 further shipments were forwarded from Katal. The fast was made by Mr. Cawston, who landed forty-two birds out of fifty-two They were then taken to Mr. Cawston's otrich farm in Los Angeles, Cal., where our illustration was taken. Mr. Cawston has been successful in raising a large number of young birds—those in the illustration being one and two weeks old. The climate and the country-as had been expected-appear to be admirably suited to the culture of these birds. The experiment also appears to be fairly profitable, as from one small bird and two bens he produced-principally by means of incu-

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE.

Dr. C. V. Riley Tells How to Destroy the Buffalo Moth at House Cleaning.

One of the greatest insect pests of the house hold, and the despair of good housekeepers is the so called buffalo moth, which first be gan to excite complaints in this country is 1874, being found about that time and soon afterward at various points in New York, Now Jersey and Massachusetts. Since then it has extended as far west as Illinois and south to Washington. Remedies commonly recommended for this insect, are not only be wildering in number, but many of them utterly inefficient, therefore the following advice given in Good Housekeeping by such high authority as Dr. C. V. Riley, government entomologist, is of the greatest value and interest to perplexed housewives. Dr. Riley

Where carpets are used, and only taken up once a year at "house cleaning," the condi tions are very favorable for the insect's increase, particularly where the house cleaning is hurrically and carelessly done. When a house has once become infested nothing but the most energetic measures will completely rid it of the pest, and in complete riddence is the only hope, as in a year a very few individuals will so merease as to do great damage. At house cleaning time, then, as many rooms should be bared at once as possible, and the housekeeper should go carefully over the rooms, removing all dust, and with a hand atomizer charged with benzine should puff the liquid into all the floor cracks and under the base boards until every crevice has been The carpets themselves, after thorough beating, should be lightly sprayed with the same substance, which will quickly evaporate, leaving no odor atter a short time. The inflammability of benzine should be remenbered, however, and no light should be brought near it. This done, before relaying the carpets it will be well to pour into the cracks a moderately thick mixture of plas ter of Paris and water, which soon set and fills them with a solid substance into which the insects will not enter. Then lay around the borders of the room a width of tarred roofing paper and afterward relay the carpets. This thorough treatment should answer in the very worst easys, and in a house so cleaned the insect will probably not regain a foothold during the ensuing year. Cloth covered furniture which may have also become infested should be steamed or also treated with benzine, and chests or drawers in which infested clothing has been stored should be thoroughly sprayed.

Another method of treatment, and one which I have frequently recommended, was indicated by me in a former communication to Good Housekeeping in rendering my decision in the competition for best remodies for household pests. It can be used to advantage whenever the work of the larva- is noticed or suspected. It consists in laying a damp cloth old towel or a folded sheet smoothly over the suspected part of the ear-pet and ironing it with a hot iron. The steam thus generated will pass through the carpet and kill all the insects immediately beneath. If not too laborious, an entire room could be treated to advantage in this way, rated with an embroldered wreath and tasse fringe. A novel feature is the introduction on one side which is scooped out in approved work table style, of a bag pocket in antique embroidery, lined with satin, in keeping with the side bow. The legs of the table are also plush covered, and encircled with ribbon and tassels. The wicker waste basket is decorated in keeping.

la regard to the complaint, not unfrequently heard, that the oven of a gasoline stove does not bake well, a trade journal is authority for the statement that the trouble is quite likely to be the fault of the operator. Bread, ment or pastry is put in as soon as the burner is highted, without waiting until the oven is thoroughly warm. It is bupossible to obtain good results after this fashion. It does not take nearly as long to heat a gasoline oven as it does that of a wood or coal stove, but it is no less important that it should be well heated.

To Prevent Salt from Packing.

The tendency of table salt to pack together in cruets and containers is said to be entirely overcome by thoroughly drying the salt and intimately mingling with it a small percentage of dry corn starch or arrowreet. From 8 to 10 per cent, is amply sufficient for the most humld atmosphere (as on the sea coast). while a much less percentage of the starch is sufficient for inland points.
